Judge denies injunction in anti-gambling lawsuit

BY TRACI BONNEY
Nothing has really changed, according to both opponents and proponents of dockside gambling. U.S. District Judge L.T. Senter Jr. ruled Friday in Aberdeen against a temporary injunction being sought by Mississippians for Quality Life, a group of business and church leaders which recently formed to fight Mississippi's dockside gaming law. The 16-member group wanted the injunction to deter the issuance of gaming licenses until the group's lawsuit against the state could be heard in court. The lawsuit, filed in March, alleges that the Mississippi

Gaming Control Act of 1990 violates voting rights by placing the burden for forcing referendums on gaming opponents. The suit also claims the law is racially discriminatory because in the only areas where dockside gambling is allowed, there are large black populations.

1991 Beach Front Fest features Jo-El Sonnier

BY TRACI BONNEY
The 11th Annual Beach Front Festival, slated for Sunday, May 19, could very aptly be called a music festival. This year's fest includes blend of cajun, country, rock and blues. He also tries to give his audiences a message of hope.

"I want to bring a lasting feeling of belief in tomorrow. I want them to take that home with them," he said.

In addition to touring solo, he has worked with Eric Clapton, Linda Ronstadt, Jackson Browne, Elvis Costello and many other stars in music's various sound categories.

Sonnier, who will end the day on the Beach Blvd./Court Street stage with an hour-long concert from 5:30 to 6:30, is just one of the eight performers that will provide the festival's musical entertainment. Also performing will be:

Beach Blvd./State Street stage—U.S. Air Force Dixieland Band, 12-1 p.m.; 2:30-3:30 p.m.; Huey, Sherry and Company, 1:15-2:15 p.m.; Pat Murphy Band, 3:45-4:45 p.m.; John Fred and The Playboy Band, 5-6 p.m.

Beach Blvd./Court Street stage—Night Shift, 12:30-1:30 p.m.; Southland Express, 2-3 p.m.; Zigg Zagg, 3:30-5 p.m.

The U.S. Air Force Dixieland Band is from Keesler Air Force Base, and Southland Express is from Slidell, La. The other four groups are from Bay St. Louis. But music isn't the only thing you'll find at the Beach Front Festival. Food, arts and crafts, and sidewalk sales are featured as well.

The festival will start at 11 a.m. and end at dusk. Admission is $2 for those from 13 to 59 years old. Admission is free for those 12 and under or 60 and over, as well as to all active duty military personnel with I.D.

In addition, the Children's Art Festival will be held again this year. Hands-on arts and crafts, displays, storytellers, dancers, singers and a spacewalk are only a few of the highlights of CAF. Special guest this year is New Orleans Saint John Fourcade.

Admission to CAF is free to children 12 and under. The Children's Art Festival will be located at the Peoples Federal Savings Bank parking lot.

County school district seeks possession of Vo-Tech school

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Superintendent Terrell Randolph of the Hancock County School District received approval

Monday by the school board to request the state to transfer possession of the Pearl River Community College Hancock County Vocational Technical Center to the control of the district.

If all goes as the superintendent described to the board, the Pearl River Community College Center will become the Hancock County Vocational Technical Center, and secondary school programs there may be increased to better serve the needs of local students.

Randolph told board members that prior to this year it was cost efficient to leave control of the Vo-Tech school to the Pearl River Community College system.

He told the board that two years ago the Pearl River Community College board approached the district requesting it take over the center as they wished to "get out of the secondary school business." "At that time it was less costly for the district to assume the center. As of now, we have been breaking even," Randolph stated.

Bay St. Louis hires Lagarde as in-house study adviser

BY TRACI BONNEY
Bay St. Louis now has a city consultant and liaison for dockside gaming/zoning study matters.

The Bay St. Louis City Council agreed Tuesday to hire Jules Lagarde at $20 per hour on a task-by-task basis, as an in-house consultant concerning a proposed comprehensive zoning study.

Lagarde, who drafted the city zoning map currently in use, will advise Mayor Edward Favre and the city government about how to proceed with hiring the consulting firm which will conduct the study. He will also act as a liaison between the Mayor's Advisory Council, the city and the consulting firm during the course of the study.

Favre said at a Monday workshop meeting that he planned to make the recommendation Tuesday. "I want us to bring him on board to do officially

Hancock juries hand down guilty verdicts in two trials

Juries convicted three men in two separate cases in Hancock County last week.

In one case, Alvin A. Garcia, 21, of Clermont Harbor and John W. Moody, 20, of Gadsden, Ala., were sentenced Wednesday to 23 years in prison after being convicted of robbery, aggravated assault and grand larceny. The conviction followed a 1990 arrest where the two men were charged with robbing Donald Ray Sanders at knifepoint of his wallet, identification papers and $78 in food stamps, and throwing him off the Ulman Avenue pier on April 24, 1990.

In the second case, James Robert Kinsack, 41, was sentenced Friday to eight years in prison after being convicted of aggravated assault on Charles Johnson, 77, of Kiln. Kinsack was accused of hitting Johnson with a folding metal chair and stabbing him with a broken steak sauce bottle during an argument September 19, 1990. Kinsack and his wife, Debra, were living with Johnson at the time of the assault.

Waveland honors returning veteran

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Ward 1 Alderman Barbara Rappold was given the honor Tuesday of presenting a commendation from the city to Waveland resident, Specialist Diane E. Caserta, on her return from the Persian Gulf War.

"I was proud of you then, as a little girl, and I'm proud of you now, as a woman who served her country," Rappold said as she handed the plaque to Caserta.

During the city meeting, Mayor Stella Frilot presented Caserta with the red, white and blue ribbon designated to her which was hung along the city streets as a reminder of her absence during the war.

Frilot added Caserta was the first of Waveland's military residents to return home.

Caserta hung her head in humility as the roar of applause filled the meeting room.

Following warm words of welcome and handshakes from all the city representatives, Caserta thanked everyone as her parents, Donald and Betty Caserta, and her grandmother Dorothy Mendow watched with obvious pride.

Pearl Peterman appeared before the board Tuesday and requested permission to organize a Youth Recreational Summer Program for the children of the city.

"There are many families who can't afford to send their children to summer camp," she said.

Peterman explained to the board that the city had many talented people who were willing to offer their time to teach.

She added that during the summer months, Waveland had an unused wealth of young people who were free from school studies.

She suggest that with the help of those young people and a few adult supervisors, the city could offer a beneficial service to its residents.

"Art and crafts, music, singing, skits," Peterman described would be part of the day's activities.

Ward 3 Alderman Curtis P. "Phil" Colson and Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman asked as to what supplies might be needed.

Rappold suggested the board review the city's recreation budget for this year and see if a few dollars remained that might be contributed to the program.

Peterman stated that she had not yet worked out enough details to know how much financial help she will need from the city with the program.

She expressed her main concern was that she obtain permission of the board to "go ahead" with the planning.

The board unanimously approved Peterman's idea.

Happy Mother's Day

I am wondering if there are others who are beginning to feel the way I am with the continuous rains we have had this year.

It seems our climate has changed and we are in a rain forest, with scheduled showers at least once a day.

I can remember us having thunderstorms about five or six times a year when I was a youngster and now we have more than that within one week.

History tells us that climates change and it sure looks like we are now in the change.

Some folks are talking about damming their yards and growing rice and crayfish.

Some lawns, like mine, look like tent cities with the numerous hills of crayfish.

Now I realize the little critters that build these castles are not the ones we eat, but they are good fish bait.

Those who are gardeners have been doing a lot of wasted work this year as it seems most gardens have drowned.

I know some folks who have planted numerous times, just to have the seeds and plants drown and then have to replant.

The wetness and sun, when it does shine, just scalds tomato, pepper, eggplant and other plants.

I know there will be a time when we all will be praying for rain before the summer is over.

As I have stated before, we can do nothing about the weather but talk about it.

I know our elected officials cringe every time it starts to rain as their crews are unable to do any drainage work with everything so wet.

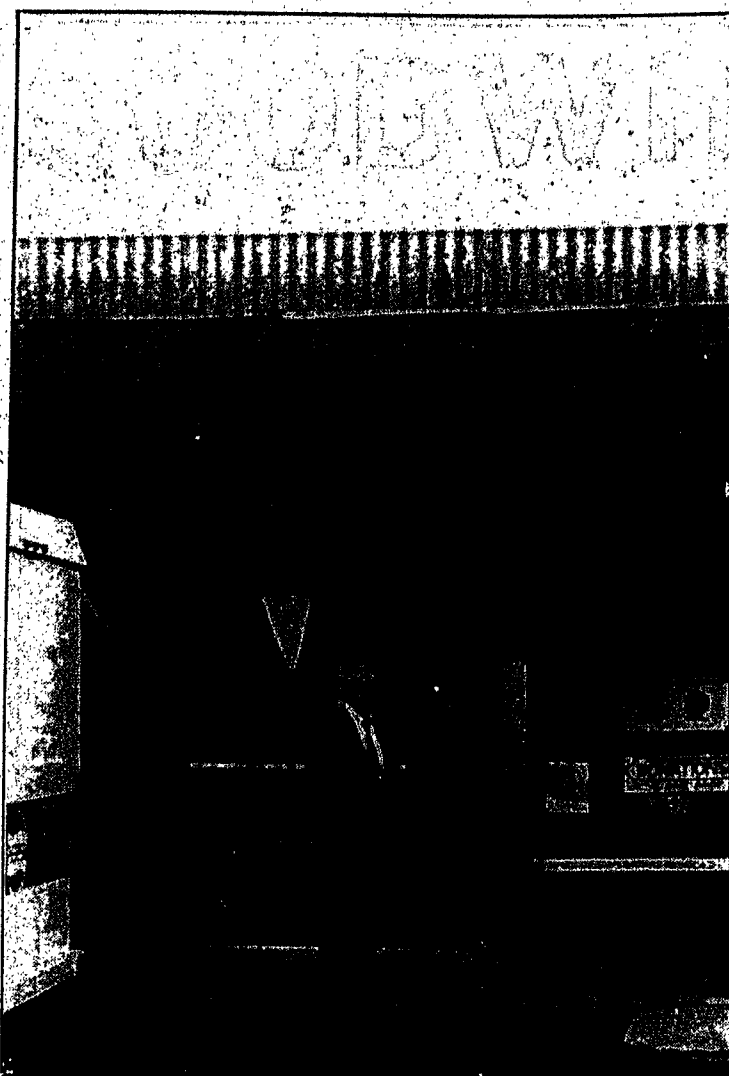

One thing is for sure, they can find some of the trouble spots.

We received several telephone calls about the flock of white pelicans in the Bay this week.

It seems these are larger than our brown pelicans, and the white ones visit the area for a few days just about every year.

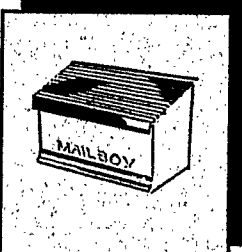

I enjoy watching pelicans fly, as they seem to be so graceful in flight.

I am hoping one day we will have the same numbers of pelicans on our beaches as we had in the '30s and '40s.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

New mayor must have time to correct long-standing problems

Dear Editor,

I ask that the citizens of Waveland who are enduring flooding temper their patience with an understanding of the reasons for the current conditions.

We cannot expect Mayor Stella Frilot to correct in just a few months years of neglect to the drainage system. The lack of upgrading compounded by record-breaking rainfall are clearly the reasons. Finally, we have a mayor who is accessible on a daily basis and our problems can be voiced in a modernized city hall and board room available to aldermen and constituents alike.

The mayor's systematic approach to correcting drainage problems is far better than yielding to the proverbial squeaking wheel. With minimal manpower the mayor is doing the very best she can in a difficult situation and deserves everyone's support and encouragement.

Now that we have a dedicated full-time mayor, do not make it a thankless job by unfounded and undeserved complaints.

Sincerely,
Mickey Askew

National Conference on State Literacy to meet in Jackson

In the last three years, adult literacy has become one of Mississippi's highest priorities.

Thanks to the work of Julie Mabus, this issue has not only reached an important prominence in our state's agenda, it has also led to some incredible successes.

That is why I am proud to announce that on May 20th and 21st, Mississippi will be the host state to the National Conference on State Literacy Assessment.

Leaders, experts, researchers and policymakers from Mississippi and the nation will be coming to Jackson to discuss and share the latest developments in the area of adult literacy.

This two-day conference will give those individuals at the forefront of literacy training an opportunity to see, first-hand, the state-of-the-art techniques that Mississippi is applying to reach our goal of 90 percent literacy by the year 2000.

At the helm of our statewide literacy movement is the Mississippi Office for Literacy, which serves as a clearinghouse and centerpiece for implementing programs that are making a difference.

This office, established in 1988, coordinates Mississippi's private and public sector literacy efforts, and helps develop ways to combat the tragedy of illiteracy.

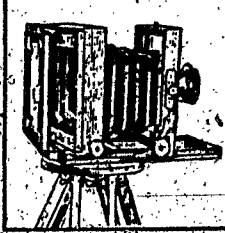

Our work is paying off. The National Conference on State Literacy Assessment, sponsored by the National Governor's Association, is just one way that the country can see the progress that is occurring in Mississippi.

Part of our record of success can be found in innovations like the "Learning Line."

It was two years ago that Julie announced the beginning of the "Learning Line"—a toll-free statewide hotline to put Mississippians in touch with the nearest literacy or adult education program.

By calling the "Learning Line" at 1-800-325-7323, any citizen can find help. This phone call could be the beginning of a new life.

Our literacy efforts here at home have borne fruit. The National Conference on State Literacy Assessment will give us an opportunity to share what we have discovered and discuss our successes.

—Bay St. Louis' two school bands, the Bay High School Band and St. Stanislaus College Band, representing a major part of the city's cultural development in music and of which we are justly proud for the splendid accomplishments and generous participation in all civic and social activities, returned from Jackson, Miss., the latter part of the week after making splendid records for themselves as bands in the various contests for units and different phases in the field of school bands. Each band was accompanied by its director, Prof. W.C. Morgan of Bay High and Brother Romauld, director of the St. Stanislaus College Band, and in addition a number of parents of children participating and others having special interests in the schools. George Comaux, member of the Junior Class of St. Stanislaus College, won first place honors in baton twirling in the contest on Thursday, while the band rated excellent in marching and good in concert work. Bay High School's band received the rating of superior in concert, excellent in marching and Miss Rose Ann Moore placed second in baton twirling.

Super Mom

Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people. Righteousness became the strength that made America great. Mother's Day was first observed in Philadelphia on May 10, 1908 by Mrs. Anna Jarvis of that city.

In 1914, President Woodrow issued a proclamation that the second Sunday in May in all churches would observe Mother's Day and the national flag be displayed on all public buildings.

History says the reason Mrs. Jarvis suggested having Mother's Day the second Sunday in all churches was to honor the mothers for the great things they were doing by staying home keeping the home fire burning while the men went to war or to other occupations out in the world.

Proverbs says they were wise women, and children learned everything they knew at their mother's knee, and "her children will rise up and call her blessed."

Motherhood has lost its sacred trust that God intended it to be. This has caused America to lose its ideals. We can no longer sing God Bless America, land that we love.

School Board

"Next year it will cost the district $30,000 to $40,000 more than if they operated the school themselves."

He said he would ask the state to transfer the administration of the county center, title to the land and facility, and funds to the school district, with the exception of the nursing and business technological programs. These will continue under the control of the Pearl River system, as they are post-secondary school programs.

He added that the employees of the center would not suffer any loss in salary but "for the most part" they may find an increase of income since the district pay scale is higher than the college pay scale.

The board listened as Randolph stated that a decision on the appropriation request was necessary that night as he was hoping for a July 1 takeover date.

Board member Lennette Necaise questioned the financial reasons involved.

Randolph accounted for the ability of the district to receive a higher percentage of state funding saying, "The district can receive 99% reimbursement while the college receives about 89%."

He added that the district would also receive the general fund millage the county contributes to the college.

Randolph said he felt the college board and the state would approve.

"Pearl can take action next week if we move on this tonight."

Board members listened as a proposal to bring the three.

what he's been doing unofficially."

At that Monday meeting, Lagarde advised the council on several points related to the study, and recommended their first step toward gathering information to provide to the consulting firm once it is hired.

Other local residents, including members of the advisory committee, also attended the workshop meeting Monday and voiced their opinions about the study and the four study proposal applicants that were selected to be interviewed.

Councilman Jim Thrifflay said he was concerned the study was going to cost too much for too little information. Lagarde replied that since the study is to be divided into three phases, the city does not have to award the contract for the entire study at one time. The city can authorize each phase as it is ready to do so.

Favre added that he thinks the feasibility study is important because it will give the city an idea of the possibilities involved with gaming operations.

He said, "It will help up establish some limits. The State Tax Commission people said they will honor local limits if they're reasonable."

Another point Lagarde made was that the city must define the parameters of the study, now that the final list of applicants has been compiled. He said the original proposal request was deliberately nonspecific in order to have the consulting firms establish their credentials and background.

Jake Jacob suggested the city find out how much each firm will deduct from its proposed fee (the range for the studies is from $42,000 to $96,000) for information the city supplies. He said the firms may be willing to reduce their fees if their research is reduced.

separate booster clubs together to aid in support of all athletic groups at the high school was made by Johnny Richard.

Randolph added that because of the support of the present booster clubs the district has not had to spend money on athletics in 10 years.

Richard stated to the board that as the athletic programs increase, due to the availability of the "beautiful new" facilities, some of the athletes suffer in that no financial assistance is offered.

"Tennis, golf, track and field, cheerleading," said Richard, "are only available to those who can afford it and find their own means of transportation, while the football, basketball and baseball player is supported by the booster clubs."

"I would like to see all the students have an equal chance."

The board appeared in agreement with Richard as many heads were shaking in understanding for the plight of the unsung athlete.

The board agreed to take home the proposal to study and discuss at another time.

The board placed on hold a request to retire the football jersey of Brett Favre, #10, until that time when it could be established what procedures in the past were used for such action.

On two other items, board attorney Joseph Gex said approval was given for legal action to begin for corrective work on a Gulfview Elementary classroom and approval to use legal action if necessary, should corrective work on door closures at Hancock High School not be completed.

In other business the board approved:

—to accept a donation of $897.85 from Coast Electric Power Co. for the purchase of a hand scanner computer;

—to revised substitute teacher policy, which gives the district the ability to hire outside the county when a substitute teacher has at least a bachelor's degree;

—the rejection of bids received for a concession stand at the high school, because they exceeded the funds available, and readvertisement in hopes that more reasonable bids might be submitted;

—the purchase of a special education software package for $2,000;

—recommendation to employ Pamela M. Pond as substitute teacher at Hancock High School; Joan M. Bilbo as substitute teacher at Gulfview Elementary School; and Barbary Spiers as a cafeteria substitute at Hancock North Central, all for the remainder of the 1990-91 school year.

Summer reading program planned

With another summer vacation just around the corner, children everywhere are looking forward to filling their days with fun. How wonderful to be able to forget for a few months the pressures of school assignments.

The staff of the Hancock County Library System is currently planning its summer reading program offered annually to young patrons. Free scheduled activities will encourage children to use the library and discover the joys of reading for pleasure.

Further information on registration and other activities will be announced soon in this newspaper, so parents and children alike are urged to watch the May 16 issue for details about getting involved in this program.

'Ready for Summer' theme of Story Hour

"Get Ready for Summer" will be theme for the last children's story hour at the City-County Public Library, Hwy. 90, Bay St. Louis.

Bobby Bear Goes to the Beach, If All the Seas Were One Sea and One Summer Night are the books to be featured on Wednesday, May 15, at 10:30 a.m.

Children will receive a "Summer Fun" coloring sheet and will see the film "Curious George Goes to the Amusement Park."

This week's story hour brings the programs to a close until September.

Weekly story times are held at the City-County Public Library and the Waveland Library from September through May. Programs last approximately one hour.

Programs and activities are designed for pre-school-age children, 3-5 years of age who are not part of a nursery or pre-school group.

More information may be obtained by calling Karen Peoples at the Waveland Library, 467-9240, or Sandra Ladner, City-County Library, 467-5282.

Lawsuit

Senter denied the injunction and said he would rule on the lawsuit's standing in the next 10 days, according to Rev. Ron Skinner, a local member of Mississippians for Quality Life.

Skinner explained that "standing" meant who was best suited to bring the lawsuit into court. He said the judge may rule that someone other than those who originally filed the suit should bring it against the state.

"Not much has changed," Skinner commented. "We didn't have a temporary injunction before we started and we don't have one now."

"We don't know what we're going to do until he (Judge Senter) rules on standing. As far as we're concerned, we're going full steam ahead."

On the other side of the gaming issue table, Charles Lambert of Bay Cove Harbour said he is happy about Friday's decision.

"I'm very pleased about it. I of course agree with the decision. I'm prepared to go ahead with my plans."

Skinner said the group will consult its attorney after Senter's ruling to plan their next step.

"The lawsuit itself is still there, it's still filed and it's still waiting for a court date. If we have to, we'll find another plaintiff and re-file the suit."

"We didn't get what we want, but we didn't lose ground from where we are."

"I will say I think the burden of proof will definitely be on us. I'll be harder, but that's okay. We're in it for the long haul."

When asked how he feels about the fact that the lawsuit isn't dead, Lambert replied, "Based on the turn of events Friday, it doesn't appear they have much of a case. I don't think there's much chance of it going to court."

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy
McGuire Caire

Pork, leaner and tastier these days than in prior times, is an especially good buy just now at our area supermarkets. It cooks in less time than the old pork, which had to be well, well done lest all sorts of things happen!

But today's pork stays juicier and quite tender when cooked to medium doneness, you see. The especially lean cuts, to which the pork industry refers as "the other white meat," may be used in many traditional and gourmet dishes which had previously called for veal, such as in veal scallopine, for example. I often make a tasty pork scallopine, using pork cutlets or tenderloin or even thinner than thin breakfast chops or tenderloin slices. (I use chicken breast slices in this dish, as well-why stay in the same old recipe rut?)

Pork chops and roasts pair well with fruits or with tomatoes, or with so many delectables. Instead of the usual applesauce, try citrus fruits for a change, or perhaps cherries. And, choose your cut by the number of servings per pound when you're looking over the boneless loins or tenderloins. A bit more pricey, but with almost no waste—and, by the way, boneless pork loins (5 to 8 lb. average) are featured this week, along with tenderloins and boneless cutlets, breakfast chops, quarter loins and chops. So take your choice!

Here's: PORK SCALLOPINE AL MARSALA

1 lb. tender slices, beaten as thin as possible
3 oz. butter
1/4 cup flour
1 tsp. salt
1 wine glass (2 jiggers) Marsala wine or sherry

Mix flour and salt, and dip pork slices in the mixture. Melt butter in a skillet and brown slices on one side for three minutes, turn and brown on the other side. Add the Marsala (or sherry) and cook for another minute or so. Serve very hot, placing scallopine on a warmed serving dish, and covering with sauce from the pan, (3 or 4 servings).

Note: For good results, the meat must be very thin and cooking time very short.—adapted from "The World's Best Recipes Cook Book."

Still in the pork section of the markets, western style pork ribs are a good buy (bone-in) and, oh, how good they'll taste on the barbecue pit or grill—if your ground's dried off enough to get to said pit or grill! If not, use oven or stove top!

As for beef, family packs of minute steaks are offered, as well as sirloin tip steaks, and sirloin tip roasts. Boneless beef stew is a good buy, as are chuck and shoulder steaks and roasts. And, t-bones are also offered.

Fresh ground chuck, in various-sized packs, is a good buy this week, along with other ground beef offerings (and ground turkey, too). Have you ever heard of a pie "crust" made from spaghetti? The crust is formed with cooked spaghetti in a pie plate, and the "filling" starts with a layer of cottage cheese, topped in turn with a ground-meat tomato mixture, a satisfying and good budget sort of meal. Here's:

SPAGHETTI PIE

6 oz. spaghetti
2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 well-beaten eggs
1 cup cottage cheese (8 oz.)
1 lb. ground beef
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped bell (green) pepper

1 (8 oz.) can tomatoes, cut up
1 (6 oz.) can tomato paste
1 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. dried oregano, crushed
1/2 tsp. garlic salt
1/2 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (2 oz. cheese)

Cook the spaghetti according to package directions, and drain (you should have approximately 3 cups of spaghetti). Stir butter or margarine into hot spaghetti. Stir in Parmesan and eggs, and form spaghetti mixture into a "crust" in a buttered 10-inch pie plate. Spread cottage cheese over bottom of spaghetti crust.

In a skillet, cook ground beef, onion and bell pepper till onion and pepper are tender and meat is browned. Drain off excess fat. Stir in undrained tomatoes, tomato paste, sugar, oregano and garlic salt, and heat through. Turn meat mixture into spaghetti crust, and bake, uncovered, in 250 degree oven for 20 minutes. Sprinkle the mozzarella cheese atop. Bake 5 minutes or longer until cheese melts. (6 servings)—from "Better Homes and Gardens" recipe card library.

Note: This is also tasty with a pound or bulk pork sausage in place of the ground meat; and sausage is a good buy this week. Drain well before placing in spaghetti crust.

Large eggs are another good buy this week, and remember, eggs have been proved to be a good food, after all; just don't overdo. But that's the rule for healthful eating, isn't it moderation?

And, that delicious standby of my cuisine, chicken breasts (in jumbo packs) are a good buy, always a good food to have on hand in fridge or freezer, or ready-for-dinner in the skillet or oven or micro or whatever. Drumsticks are also a good buy.

Florida pole beans are in good supply, along with broccoli and California asparagus, as well as those Vidalia onions from Georgia, and all sorts of other fresh vegetables.

Cantaloupes are in good supply, as are Delicious apples, both red and golden, Washington state extra-fancy, and also pears from that same state. And, strawberries are there for the choice as well.

Papaya

A healthy, lo-cal enhancement to native Mississippi fruits

Not too long ago, only islanders and travelers to the Islands were acquainted with the luscious, refreshing flavor of papaya.

Today, papayas are shipped almost daily to supermarkets throughout the United States. This tropical fruit is an excellent enhancement to native Mississippi fruits.

Fresh papayas are available year-round, with peak supply during two periods: mid-April through June and again in mid-October through mid-December.

The papaya looks something like a melon, but is actually a tree-grown fruit. Papayas are pear-shaped, measure 5 to 6 inches long, and average about a pound in weight.

The smooth, green outer peel turns golden yellow-orange when ripe, and encases a golden to rosy flesh.

Color	Stage of Ripeness	Ripening Time at Room Temperature
Green, with slight yellow tinge at larger end.	1/4 ripe	5-7 days at room temperature.
1/3 yellow, 2/3 green.	1/2 ripe	2-4 days at room temperature.
1/2 yellow, 2/3 green.	3/4 ripe	1-2 days at room temperature.
Mostly yellow orange	100% ripe	Should be kept in refrigerator up to one week.

The juicy flesh of the papaya is firm and smooth with a flavor reminiscent of a melon and a little like a peach with rich tropical sweetness.

Tiny black seeds fill the inner cavity of papayas and should be discarded before serving.

While there are many papaya varieties, the Solo papaya predominates. A special hybrid variety, the Solo papaya was specially developed to thrive in Hawaii's rich black lava soil. Thanks to the warm sun and frequent rains, Hawaiian papaya orchards flourish and bear fruit all year.

Another newer variety of Hawaiian-grown papaya, called Sunrise Solo, is available in selected markets and has a reddish-orange, sweet tasting flesh.

Look for papayas with smooth unblemished skin. As with most fresh fruit, papayas bruise easily, so they should be handled with care. Avoid those with dark spots which often go below the skin surface and can spoil the flavor of the fruit.

Papayas are shipped to the market mature, but at various degrees of ripeness. Judging the degree of ripeness is best determined by eye rather than touch. The following chart will help you select papayas at the degree of ripeness you prefer:

Papayas are a rich source of vitamins and minerals, especially vitamins A and C and potassium.

Dieters will be glad to know that papayas have a modest calorie count—one 7-ounce papaya half provides only about 80 calories.

Papayas also are low in sodium which is especially helpful for people on special diets.

Papayas are easy to digest, making this fruit an excellent food for babies and convalescents.

Senior Citizens Center

Located in the Valena C. Jones Bldg. at 301 Old Spanish Trail in Bay St. Louis, the center serves Hancock County citizens 60 plus years of age.

Under the Hancock County Human Resource Agency, the center provides classes in ceramics, macrame, art, quilting, counted cross stitch, silk flowers, Christmas ornaments, framing, wood working and various other crafts. A morning snack is provided with donations from various clubs and businesses.

The center has a contract to provide 30 home delivered meals a day to those seniors who cannot provide for themselves, and 35 meals for those who have a need for a hot well-balanced meal daily in the cafeteria at the center.

Transportation is provided through a contract with Coast Area Transportation for most seniors in the county to bring them into the center, or to take them to the grocery, doctor, etc.

The contract with Methodist Senior Services provides two homemakers for about two hours a week to homebound, needy seniors to do light house-keeping or errands for them.

For more information, call the center at 467-2292 from 7:30 am to 3:30 pm.

COOKING UP A STORM

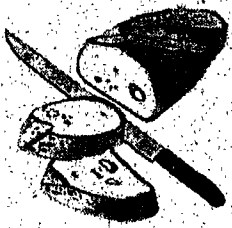

By Katy McGuire Caire

There's an old saying that "Man lives not by bread alone," a very true saying, but speaking for myself, I would find it difficult to live happily without bread, wouldn't you?

I am a bread-lover or breadaholic or whatever you wish to call my life-long love and hunger for bread in all varieties and guises, and I scarcely consider a meal complete without biscuits or rolls or hot French bread, or wheat or rye, or something else! In fact, when dining out—or "in" for that matter—I often-times judge the goodness of a meal by the accompanying bread; and at one of my favorite Coast restaurants, so content am I with sips of wine and bites of their hot, delicious, crusty small loaves of bread, that I could almost make my meal on that combination alone!

No one knows when bread was first made. Its origin is lost in the mists of time. But its history certainly goes back thousands of years. Relics of utensils of the Swiss Lake Dwellers who lived 10,000 years ago show that they had already developed baking as an art.

Bread was so important to the ancient Egyptians that the Pharaohs placed small clay statues of men making bread in the tombs of their loved ones so that they would never be hungry as they journeyed through all eternity.

Ever since primitive man, so long ago, first learned about crushing grains, mixing them with water and cooking them on hot stones near his fire, bread appears on every page of history, sustenance of all mankind, and a delight to the palate as well.

Sometimes I bake my own bread, sometimes I buy it. But, you may be sure that you'll always find bread, of some kind, at my table. (In my bread basket and in the freezer this moment are loaves of rye, wheat and French breads, along with rolls, pita bread and breadsticks—and let's not forget the bagels!)

Along with a variety of cheeses and wine, I'll not go hungry. And, that brings me to a delicious bread recipe from my cousin, Helen Currie Caire, one of the most accomplished cooks around. Here's:

HELEN'S ZUCCHINI BREAD

(It's so great when something so good for you is also so good!)

- 3 eggs
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup vegetable oil
- 2 cups grated zucchini
- 1 Tbsp. vanilla
- 3 cups flour
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 2 tsp. cinnamon
- 1 tsp. allspice
- 2 cups nuts

Beat eggs, butter, oil and vanilla. Add zucchini and dry ingredients, and stir well. Add nuts. Bake at 350 degrees in greased bread pans for 1 hour or until done.

This recipe is from "It's All Relative" which Helen gave me several days ago. It's a compilation of recipes, delightful ones, a "Morrill Family Collection" as the subtitle says and is an outgrowth of a series of family reunions, with the recipe collection begun in earnest at a summer reunion a few years ago at Helen's beachfront home in Pass Christian.

There's a recipe for Irish Soda Bread in the cookbook, also one for Sausage Bread, along with all sorts of other tasty recipes from various members of the Morrill clan.

Food preservation techniques seminar offered Thursday

Preserving fresh garden produce gives a great sense of pride and accomplishment. It provides security in having food within an arm's reach. It offers a supply of food prepared according to family preferences and special dietary needs.

Most of us learned how to can and freeze from helping our mother or grandmother in the kitchen. Over the years food preservation methods have changed due to scientific research in this area.

Some of the methods used not so many years ago have been proven unsafe, some downright dangerous. New equipment and products have made home canning and freezing faster and less time consuming.

Also, due to consumer demand, jelly making products and techniques have changed.

Learn the latest and safest food preservation techniques on Thursday, May 16, 9:30 a.m. The free class will be conducted in the meeting room, Hancock Human Services Building, 3064 Longfellow Drive, Bay St. Louis.

The program is open to any interested individuals. Registration is not necessary. Questions concerning the program may be addressed to the Hancock County Extension Service at 467-5456.

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Editor's note: This article is one of a three-part series on race relations in the Catholic Church.

The Louisiana State Committee Against Apartheid in South Africa has many bones to pick with the government of South Africa, with racists everywhere, and, according to a recent letter addressed to me, a few with me in particular.

Since copies of that letter were sent to, among others, the "National Conference of Black Catholics" and to "All African Americans," I am treating it and answering it as an open letter.

ter to be shared by all.

Carl Galmon, president of said committee and a longtime acquaintance/adversary of mine, began his letter by letting me know that I have earned the title of "Chief Housenigger of New Orleans." Quoting his grandfather, he said, "A house-nigger is looking for two things out of life, 'white acceptance and white approval.'"

I do hope that he is aware that my two previous articles, to which he takes such violent exception, passed muster among most black Catholics around the country. Since that is the case, he will have to apply his odious epithet to them as well. I am presuming, with some misgiving, to answer for myself as well as for all of them.

In the name of Jesus, I refuse to return epithet for epithet. No good is accomplished by name-calling, no matter how appropriate we think the name happens to be. We must follow the Master in all things, and we see that he labeled no one except the Pharisees, and only because they insisted on living as hypocrites and deceiving the Jewish people.

Besides, name-calling strongly implies a hostile relationship. However, I do not view my relationship with anyone as hostile, even though some of our views and strategies may be adversary in philosophy and application.

As Christians, as reasoning human beings bent on helping each other, even those of us who disagree in some things must try with might and main to make the most of the areas where we agree.

Mr. Galmon, perhaps it was through oversight that you omitted the title before my name on your letter's address. The title, of course, means nothing to me, but it is a matter of principle, since you entitle everyone else in the letter.

If you are reacting to the fact that I did not always use a title before a name like Glenn Jeanmarie in the articles where I mentioned some names, you must realize that, in the same articles, I also did not give myself a title.

At times, various writers refer to certain people without titles, even speaking simply of John Paul II. Nonetheless, let it be a matter of record that I would never direct a letter to Father Glenn Jeanmarie or to Bishop G. Augustus Stallings without using their proper title. That is a formal act of protocol and respect.

You are mistaken in saying that I did not support Father Albert McKnight in the July 1987 five-day march from Opelousas to Baton Rouge. It is a matter of record that the marchers terminated their march at St. Paul the Apostle Church in Baton Rouge where I was pastor at the time.

With the marchers in attendance, I was the celebrant of a festive Mass of thanksgiving for a safe journey, of intercessory prayer for our needs, and of hope for a meaningful resolution of all our problems as African Americans.

As a keepsake, I am enclosing an audiotape of that Mass which I myself recorded on that historic day. It will interest you to know that I have cherished the memory of that day and still play the tape from time to time.

You state in the third paragraph of your letter that you were "attacked by a group of culturally deprived houseniggers when you approached the Orleans Parish School Board on January 23, 1989 about adopting an African/African American history and curriculum in the New Orleans Public Schools."

If you mean to imply that I, too, would be against the introduction of an African/African American History and Culture curriculum in the New Orleans public schools or private schools there or anywhere else in the country, you are wrong again. I think that is the best way to go in teaching youth. Further, I have not heard a single friend or acquaintance of mine speak against such a curriculum, although there are surely people who are opposed to it.

If you examine the Pastoral Plan of the 1987 National Black Catholic Congress, you will see that the very first section addresses "Black History and Culture," which it encourages in libraries and at all levels of education. The black bishops and both black and white pastors working in black parishes are actively promoting such education.

Unfortunately, I know all too well the sins and deficiencies which you mentioned about the Roman Catholic Church. In our seminary education enroute to the priesthood, we were steeped in church history, much of which was to our distaste, what with some medieval popes no better than the worldliest of their day and with political intrigue rampant throughout the upper echelons of the Church. To put it mildly, you were kind in mentioning so few of the Catholic Church's racial, social and political transgressions.

Mother's Day is May 12th

The M is for Mother, whose day is at hand,
To remind you of what she has done,
With an O for the old days, when she'd understand
All the cares of your life just begun.
Now the T is for tears she removed from your eyes,
Just when everything seemed to go wrong.
While the H bids you honor her counsel so wise,
Which has helped you in getting along.
Then the E is each word of advice from above,
That God gave her to show you the way,
And the R will remind you to give her your love;
So remember your Mom on her day!

Governor reenacts bill signing to honor Bay Middle students

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

At long last, that which they fought for is now a reality.

Mississippi's Marine Litter Law has been renewed and through the efforts of 29 Bay Middle students it has stricter rules and penalties than before.

The combined sixth grade classes of Jane Lamb and Jeanette Handshoe shared center stage Thursday with Governor Ray Mabus when they were honored by their school and local dignitaries during a celebration and reception.

Dell Taylor spoke in behalf of her class thanking those who helped and those who fought (State Representative J.P. Compretta and State Senator Vic Frankiewicz) for their cause.

She asked, "What have we learned?"

"...the legislative process; ...how long it takes to write a bill;

"...that it isn't as easy as it looks;

"...that adults aren't the only ones who can make a new law."

Governor Ray Mabus spoke to the school and to the 29 saying, "You found out that it is not easy, that it takes time and that one person can make a difference."

He told them of his pride in their hard work, that they did it the right way, gathering support, not giving up when it appeared they would not succeed.

Mabus told all the students that he hoped they learned that through their involvement was government formed.

"You can make things happen here, in Bay St. Louis, in Hancock County, in Mississippi, in the United States of America and in the world."

He commended Lamb and Handshoe and all the teachers and administrators who helped to support the students in their efforts.

He spoke of how through these student's efforts, the future of Mississippi will forever be changed and he challenged all of those present to join together and "pick something else next year."

Mabus explained that the bill had already been signed into law several weeks ago, but that he wished to share it with them, so he brought a copy in order to reenact the moment they achieved.

The governor moved to a table set in the center of the gymnasium and all the students flocked around as he once more made all their work into reality.

The media surrounded the governor and the students, lights shining and cameras flashing, so that one magic moment could be recorded for all time.

Lamb concluding the event with the most poignant remark of the day, said, "You know, only in America could a group of sixth grade students complete a civics project in this manner."

The couple will exchange wedding vows June 1 in an afternoon ceremony at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Swilley-Ladner

Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Dedeaux was the setting for the April 6 marriage of Desiree Deanne Ladner and Brian Anthony Swilley, both of Dedeaux community.

The Reverend Joseph C. Mercier celebrated a Nuptial Mass and officiated at the afternoon ceremony. Nuptial music was presented by pianist Eileen Eve and soloist Melissa Braxton.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Floyd (Deborah Ladner) Naquin of Carriere, Miss. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Swilley of Dedeaux.

Altar servers were Robbie Randall and Kimmy Ladner. Readings from scripture were rendered by Pam Cuevas, Radley Ladner and LaShea Ladner.

The bride arrived at the church in a horse-drawn carriage.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, John V. Ladner, the bride wore a formal gown of white satin with pearl accented embroidered schiffli lace, sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. The full skirt was appliqued with schiffli lace which also bordered the hemline and chapel length train fell from a butterfly bow at the back waist.

Her V-band headpiece featured loops of pearls and side sprays of flowers and pearls with illusion pouf and tiered veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of bridal white roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and greenery.

Rochelle Cuevas attended her sister as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Charlotte Ladner, Natalie Ladner, Ginger Roney, Rhonda Gayle Harmon, Arlette Ladner, Shenea Ladner and Cynthia Ladner.

The attendants were identically attired in formal gowns of iridescent plum taffeta, each with sweetheart neckline, full puffed sleeves and basque waistline above a full tea length skirt with hi-lo hemline.

They each carried a clutch style bouquet of bridal white roses, stephanotis and greenery tied with iridescent ribbons.

Miss Ashley Ladner and Dreisson Necaise, godchildren of the bride, were flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Jeffrey Swilley was best man.

Serving as groomsmen were Durant Cuevas, Homer McKnight Jr., Todd Towe, Ryan Randall, Keith Dedeaux, Timmy LaFontaine and Randy Ladner.

A wedding reception followed the ceremony at the Dupont Recreational Building in DeLisle.

The couple resides in the Dedeaux community.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Hancock Women's Club

The Hancock Women's Club held its monthly meeting Thursday, May 9 at the Diamondhead Quality Inn, with Lois Cripple presiding. Three guests were present: Peggy Gibbens, Amelia Terbonne and Eileen Dell.

On April 24 club members met at the walking track of Hancock Medical Center for dedication of trees planted in memory of members and spouses who had died during the past year.

Deceased were Hortense Delbert and Maggie Peckham, members, and the husbands of Dolores Jackson and Evelyn Appelt. Certificates were awarded to next of kin or closest friend by Lois Cripple, president.

Following the tree ceremony, the group went to the American Legion's McCall Hall in Waveland for Fun and Games Day, consisting of an auction of wrapped articles, lunch, and playing of Po-ke-no.

Enough money was raised at this event to enable the club to approve the donation of $200 to the Mississippi Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranches. The club hopes to have a representative form that organization as speaker at a future meeting.

Fun and Games Day for this month will again be at McCall Hall on Wednesday, May 22. Weather permitting, it is planned to hold this event at ground level below the building, as some of the members wish to avoid the stairs.

Next month's meeting will be at the Wheel Inn Restaurant in Bay St. Louis at 11 a.m. on Thursday, June 13. This will be the last meeting until September.

The club is considering a picnic on Fun and Games Day June 26 to wind up the activities before the summer break.

Marjorie Thomson won the door prize.

Some members stayed after lunch to play cards in the hotel's atrium.

Mississippi Association

Educational Office Personnel

Ruby Allen, president of Mississippi Association of Educational Office Personnel, has proclaimed the third week of May to be Mississippi Educational Bosses Week in recognition of their service to schools and communities.

MAEOP is the professional association for educational office personnel in Mississippi. MAEOP recognizes the unique roles of educational office professionals and the important contributions they make to the education profession.

Pass Christian Garden Club

The Pass Christian Garden Club installation luncheon was at the Pass Christian Yacht Club Thursday, May 2.

Officers installed for the 1991-92 term were: president, Mrs. McInnis Ward; first vice-president, Mrs. John G. Drevar; second vice-president, Mrs. Arthur C. Apffel; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Campbell;

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Albert Brown; treasurer, Mrs. Alfred Abunza; historian, Mrs. Jean Moreland; and parliamentarian, Mrs. Warren L. Schulz.

Tree dedicated

Dolores Jackson receives certificate from Lois Cripple, Hancock Women's Club president, in memory of her husband, Charles, at recent ceremony at Hancock Medical Center walking track during dedication of trees planted in memory of club members and spouses who died during the past year. Certificates were also awarded to family or close friends of deceased members Nortense Delbert and Maggie Peckham, and Evelyn Appelt's husband, Stanley.

National Association
Women in Construction

Eugene Stewart, acting director of OSHA, State of Mississippi, will conduct a mini-seminar on Tuesday, May 14, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at W. Fred's Restaurant located at the Emerald Beach in Biloxi, followed by lunch at 1 p.m.

The seminar, sponsored by Mississippi Gulf Coast NAWIC 256, and offered as a service to the industry has a registration fee of $20, which includes lunch.

Make reservations with Joanna Pinto, c/o Starks Contracting Co. Inc., P.O. Box 6756, Biloxi, MS 39532. The seminar will be on OSHA bookkeeping and penalties as revised March 1, 1991.

Chronic Fatigue Syndrome or Fibrositis?

Nearly everyone has heard about the Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (CFS). It seems to be in the news a lot. But what is it? It's not always what you think.

Basically the syndrome is, as the name implies, marked by a profound sense of tiredness. Not only after a day of work, but even in the morning. In fact, the sensation of fatigue may be so overwhelming that going to work at all may become nearly impossible.

Other symptoms that are common are muscle aches, swollen lymph nodes, weakness and of course, fatigue. These are also frequent. But what about what causes this? There is the possibility of chronic Epstein-Barr Virus (EBV) or Cytomegalovirus (CMV) playing a role. When these are contracted, they have attracted a lot of media. Unfortunately, they don't always go away. There is no real treatment for these viruses.

Fibrositis or Fibromyalgia is a very common syndrome treated very frequently by rheumatologists. Patients are often referred to the rheumatologist after the initial evaluation fails to find an explanation for the patients' complaints. These are often the same as CFS.

Patients with these problems often feel that they are good people, but there are good reasons for their problems and many patients are not aware of them. If you or someone you know has these problems, we would like to ask your family doctor for a referral to our office for an appointment.
